Linkage Level Descriptions

Initial Precursor	Distal Precursor	Proximal Precursor	Target	Successor
During a shared reading of a text, the student is able to identify and distinguish between the words and pictures on a page in text, braille, or tactile object/graphic.	The student can identify the major characters, setting, and major events in a story without the use of additional information from pictures.	The student can recognize and identify information that is directly stated in a story.	The student can identify details in a story that answer a question about explicit information and can analyze the story to determine both what it says explicitly and where inferences need to be drawn to acquire a full understanding of the story's meaning.	The student can analyze a story to identify where information is explicitly stated and where inferences should be drawn to acquire a full understanding of the story's meaning.

Initial Precursor and Distal Precursor Linkage Level Relationships to the Target

How is the Initial Precursor related to the Target?

Understanding what a text says explicitly requires students attend to the specific words and illustrations or tactual information presented in a text. Students working at the Initial Precursor linkage level can begin to work on this during repeated shared reading of DLM Familiar Texts aligned with this linkage level. These texts include photos, tactile graphics, or objects that match the text to provide numerous opportunities for students to learn to differentiate between the text and the pictures/tactile graphics and begin matching pictures or objects with the words or other symbols they represent.

How is the Distal Precursor related to the Target?

Learning to determine what a text says explicitly and making simple inferences about a text requires students to identify the key elements or details. Students working at the Distal Precursor linkage level can work on this during repeated shared readings of DLM Familiar Texts aligned with this linkage level. These texts are written with clearly identified story elements (e.g., characters, settings, events) that students can learn to identify over time.
